Jersey City's Opera Solutions Named 2010 Private Company of the Year by the New Jersey Technology Council

JERSEY CITY – Mayor Jerramiah T. Healy announced today that a Jersey City firm, Opera Solutions, LLC, has been named the 2010 Private Company of the Year by the New Jersey Technology Council. A global leader in technology and advanced analytics, Opera Solutions will receive the honor at the New Jersey Technology Council's Annual Awards Gala on November 17, 2010.

“With offices throughout the world, including New York, London, and New Delhi, Opera Solutions demonstrates that a Jersey City address can help businesses compete in the global marketplace,” said Mayor Healy. “That Opera Solutions’ cutting edge analytic team selected Jersey City for their headquarters further highlights the quality of firms which continue to be drawn to Wall Street West.”

The New Jersey Technology Council's Annual Gala event celebrates the “Best in Technology” companies, as well as foremost educational and technology support leaders, and has often been called the “Academy Awards” for New Jersey's booming technology community. The Gala honors companies and individuals in a number of categories, including Public, Private, Green, Electronics, and Software/IT.

“Opera Solutions is deeply honored to be recognized as the Private Company of the Year by the New Jersey Technology Council,” said Arnab Gupta, CEO and Founder of Opera Solutions. “New Jersey is home to a great many extraordinarily dynamic and accomplished tech firms, so it means a great deal to us that NJTC has singled out our ability to use advanced analytics to create rapid profit and operational improvement for our clients.”

The New Jersey Technology Council is one of the region's premier trade organizations. Founded in 1996, the New Jersey Technology Council's more than 1,100 member companies work in unison to support their own enterprises while advancing New Jersey's status as a leading technology center in the United States.

“We are proud to name Opera Solutions the Private Company of the Year for 2010,” said Maxine Ballen, President and CEO of the New Jersey Technology Council. “We know that Opera Solutions, through its incredible work in analytics and data management, is deserving of this Gala Award, and we are excited to watch this company as it continues to be an innovative technology leader in New Jersey, and across the globe.”

Opera Solutions, which serves a broad range of clients worldwide, is a global technology and analytics firm which specializes in a variety of sectors, including financial services, marketing, capital markets, consumer goods, manufacturing, government, retailing, media, and hospitality. Founded in 2004, the firm has over 400 employees in offices in Jersey City, New York, San Diego, London, Paris, Shanghai, and New Delhi.
